Dear Mr. John-Mary Kauzya;

Bunditpatanasilpa Institute is an academy under the authority of the Ministry of Culture. The institute manages the curriculum of fifteen central and regional colleges of dramatic arts and colleges of fine arts, and three undergraduate faculties that provide education in and encourage knowledge of Thai and international dramatic, musical, vocal, and fine arts.

Bunditpatanasilpa Institute is made responsible for culture education in the fields of dance, music, arts and crafts at the local, traditional, nation and international levels starting from the basic vocational to higher vocation education. Apart from teaching, performing, conducting research and academic services, its responsibilities include the promotion, the continuation, the creation, the nurturing and the diffusion of arts and culture as national identify and also to preserve cultural diversity.

Bunditpatanasilpa Institute is interested in the Comptroller General’s Department Project (CGD) which is go together with Public Social Welfare cards. Because this project was created for poor people or those who have limited opportunities so the government could help them in the form of monetary payments for these people or those suffering from a low income to live suitably. In addition, it is a tool to deliver a chance of getting knowledge and practicing skills for people to improve their career and increase their income resulting in getting away from lower-income employment and improving their quality of life. Then, they will become a co-developer and promote the country’s economy growth and sustainable future.

Bunditpatanasilpa Institute is confident that it is an organization worthy of recognition. With this in mind, I wish to nominate The Comptroller General Department’s Project for the UN Public Service Awards 2019. Please do not hesitate to contact our Institute if you require any further information to ask any question. Thank you for your kind consideration.

Yours sincerely,

(Mr. Amnuay Nualanogn)
Vice President of Bunditpatanasilpa Institute
